New ING Global Network website is live

We are pleased to inform you that our revamped website is now live.

While we kept contents from the previous one, we simplified the texts as much as possible and put a focus on our added-value for multinational companies, intermediaries and insurers.

Amongst the new features are the press releases on the home page and a download area for the network brochure. The latter will be available in different languages and currently the English and Spanish version can be downloaded. A Russian one will be added soon with a French one in the near future.

The partners' contact details list has been made more dynamic with an interactive map. It should be noted that all email addresses that are shown have been encrypted so that they cannot be harvested by spammers.

For easier navigation the site has now a search function. Please note that the search feature is built to only return results for words longer than 3 letters.
